

Jack Hill has been with the Department of Finance and Administration for the past nineteen years where he is Director of Policy Development for the Division of Accounts. He is a graduate of Oberlin College, and has a Master's in Political Economy from the Graduate Faculty of the New School for Social Research in New York City. For many years he worked part-time for several bank marketing companies based in Nashville, writing and editing material on economic and financial matters.